

Dr. Alankar Shrivastava

Dr. Alankar Shrivastava is working as Associate Professor in the department of pharmaceuticals in KIET School of Pharmacy and holds about 15 years of teaching experience and has guided twelve postgraduate students till date. He has about 50 publications in various international and national journals. He is an author and editor of two books and has written 7 chapters published in different book titles. The articles authored by him are cited in many international journals and total citations now is more than 2800. He is editorial board member of two international journals and reviewer in many different international and national journals. His key areas of research are pharmaceutical quality assurance and drug analysis. Other than this he has four patents published in his credit. He is a member of professional bodies like APTI and Indian Science Congress.